Alabama Claims Again

WASHINGTON April 24 —At the celebration of the St George's Society last evening Sir Edward Thornton responded to a toast and alluded to the Alabama difficulty as follows

I was much gratified at having the honor of being one of the signers of the treaty of Washington and I had great faith in the principle involved in the arbitration I have it still No one believes or supposes that the British Commissioners had any idea the slightest idea, of indirect damages being included in that treaty A subsequent examination of the treaty and its working has not lessened but on the contrary, confirmed them In their original and publicly proclaimed belief, the Gov't of the United States think otherwise and have so declared They have an undoubted right to their own opinion I cannot, however but hope that the present attempt to apply the great principle of arbitration may not fail on account of a misunderstanding and that a solution seems possible between the two great nations with equal power It is easy, dignified and generous to waive claims for the payment of which one of them thinks herself entitled It is impossible for the other to be bound by a decision which renders her a debtor for a claim which she does not admit she agreed to submit to arbitration I can see such a solution and am confident that such a solution would be applied by all the nations of the world and it would do honor to the Great Republic of even the United States

A Pea Successfully Extracted from the Ear, after having been imbedded against the Drum of the Ear for Eight Months

PORTLAND April 8, 1872

To the Public
I hereby certify to the skill of Dr Aborn in the treatment of my son In August last he got a large pea into his ear Physicians were applied to without success. The pea soon caused inflammation, and a fungus growth ... over the pea and filled up the entire ear and of ... a bloody discharge oozed from the ear and I greatly alarmed about his perilous condition After satisfying myself that Dr Aborn was a skillful surgeon in all such cases I applied to him on Wednesday last, with my son and placed him under his care He destroyed the fungus growth so as to make a passage back to the pea and on the fourth day he succeeded in removing all the fungus growth and disease of the ear Then by the aid of his scientific instruments we could plainly see the pea embedded against the drum of the ear The pea was removed the same evening without pain The hearing in that ear which was destroyed is now, by his treatment, restored, so that he can hear a watch tick Only for the timely aid of the skill of Dr Aborn I feel satisfied that my son would have lost his life. It was through the card of Capt Pease that I applied to Dr Aborn, so I give this card to the public with the view that it may be the means of benefitting some one

THURSDAY MORNING APRIL [illegible] 1872

National Wealth

A statistician presents in the New York [illegible] an interesting compilation from the census concerning the wealth of the [illegible] country. The national wealth amounting, as we have shown [illegible] former occasion to be upwards of thirty [illegible] millions of dollars may be distributed so as to show the centers of prosperity [illegible] is at New York. The seven States which [illegible] average wealth is the greatest [illegible] ception regard New York city as their center. All but one other, Rhode Island, are contiguous to New York State. Connecticut stands third in the list, giving each inhabitant a property of $1,441 30. New York is first at $1,483 17. The other center of wealth is in the Mississippi valley across its northern half. The center of poverty, so to speak, is in the south, in the Gulf States. The relation of wealth per capita to taxation per capita shows some very curious things. Nevada, the poorest State in aggregate wealth, the fifteenth in average individual wealth, has the heaviest per capita taxation. In the other States the order of taxation and average property is not very much disturbed. The east pay the heaviest taxes, and the south the lightest, excepting Louisiana and the body of western States comes in between. But it is hard to consider the rate of taxation without reference to the amount of debts, State, town, county, etc, in each State. These debts, according to the Nation's tables, amount in Louisiana to $73 03 per head, a sum not far from double that of the next on the list, Massachusetts, which is $47 49. The position of Massachusetts is second in the tables of average wealth, taxation per capita, and public debt per capita.

The amount of public debt per capita in New England, according to the Nation's tables, ranges from Massachusetts as given above, to $10 87 in Vermont. But the same calculation on the State debt proper makes New England average a little over ten dollars indebtedness per head. In Maine it is thirteen dollars, in Connecticut and Rhode Island it is twelve, in Massachusetts, eleven, New Hampshire, eight, and in Vermont only four. This shows that about three-quarters of New England's indebtedness is in the form of county, town and city burdens. The State debts proper are almost all war debts. On the other hand, Virginia had an indebtedness in total of $45 64 per head, of which a little over $40 is State debt. Tennessee, out of an average of $38 80, pays $30 on purely State debt. A case of extreme discrepancy between the State debt and local debts, is in Iowa. There the average of the aggregate debt is $6 73, but her State debt lays only twenty-eight cents on each inhabitant. The debts of Nebraska, Wisconsin and West Virginia are wholly of a local character. The State as such is free from debt. This comparison shows that the richest portions of the country have incurred the heaviest obligations. They have, as it were, mortgaged their prosperity. Those States, likewise, which are growing the fastest, as Iowa, Illinois, and Ohio, are those in which the ratio of the local to the State debt is the largest. These States which have the best schools and local governments are upon the face of it those that pay the most money for them. The Southern States, on the other hand, though not burdened with as large a rate of per capita taxation, have the largest per capita State debt and the smallest local burdens.

The Grant Meeting in New York.

At the great meeting at New York on the 17th instant, in support of General Grant, a list of three hundred Vice Presidents, comprising the first men of the metropolis, was presented and read. Several leading Germans were among them. Delegations in Congress from thirteen States sent congratulations to the meeting. Among the speakers was Senator Wilson of Massachusetts who "delivered a powerful address, extolling the Republican party, deprecating the division in it as unnecessary and unwise, and appealing in eloquent terms to all disposed to go after the new departure to return. He declared that there was no principle for which the so called Reformers had declared but was a part of the Republican creed, and that could and would be obtained by legislation already inaugurated by that party." Senator Morton of Indiana followed. He "defended the Administration from the vague charges made against it, and declared that it was, taken all in all, the best the country had had for fifty years. He was very severe on the Cincinnati Convention, declaring that the movement was entirely a personal one, founded upon no principle, and predicted that the participants would be divided on every principle and only united in their resentments." Vice President Colfax sent a letter to the meeting, which was read. He urged firmness, moderation and harmony, and recalled the fact that the grandest reforms which the country owes to the fidelity of the Republican organization were carried through when it was assailed, as now, by foes from its own household. He concluded with an expression of the belief that in the history of the country the name of Grant will be found side by side with that of Lincoln. Resolutions were adopted declaring that the "merchants, bankers and business men of New York were satisfied with Grant's Administration, that the practical result of the Liberal movement, if successful, would be to restore the Democratic party to power, that the re-election of President Grant would be an appropriate reward for his faithful services, and accord with the broadest views of public policy. The practical reforms inaugurated and the substantial result gained, the reduction of the National debt and our foreign and Indian policies, were referred to. While honorable opposition is entitled to respect, every effort to blacken for political purposes, the character of President Grant, is a crime against truth which vindicates him and an insult to the American people who honor and exalt him. Pure in private as irreproachable in public life with strong resolution, yet deferential to the public will, patient under attack, more ready to listen than to speak, with no display, no ostentation, those who know him best bear testimony to his sense, sagacity and power of analysis, by which his utterances were characterized and impressed. The declaration was added that a majority of the people of the country expect and desire the renomination and reelection of Grant.

To-day (Thursday) the ceremonies attendant upon laying the corner stone of the new Episcopal church will take place. An address will be delivered by Rev Mr Burton, and appropriate remarks by Bishop Morris.

An important legal opinion of Judge Upton will be found on the fourth page of to-day's issue.

The Way They do it in Clatsop County

Owing to a feud in the Republican ranks two years ago the Democrats elected their candidates to all the principal offices. The result was as [illegible] one expected that knew Democrats well. The [illegible] what they [illegible] when they [illegible] in power [illegible] 1868 and 1869 under Republican rule [illegible] over $[illegible] for each year. The expenditures for the years 1870 and 1871 under Democratic rule amount to over $[illegible] for the two years [illegible]. That [illegible] was greatest [illegible]

[illegible] that [illegible] Court House [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] tell us where it can be seen.

Notwithstanding the record they have they have the effrontery to ask their party to renominate them in this perfect keeping with their party to do so. There is a [illegible] Republican majority in the county and these are always [illegible] and they use every means in their power to get votes. One [illegible] tell that their Republican opponent didn't want the office and if he was elected he would appoint such a one deputy, always designating some one for the deputy that is the most obnoxious.

They have held their Convention and have re-nominated the same old set with a few more added, of the same ilk. Begging votes will be the order of the day with them. At the last election, some of them were asking Republicans to vote for them because they were poor. It is hoped that if Clatsop county has any paupers they will provide for them as other communities do and not give them a chance to bleed the public. Passiveism is a game they are advocating. It is a very common remark that they are going to vote for the best men, but they will be certain to think that their Democratic nominees are the best when they come to vote.

Some of the more honorable Democrats repudiate that party and say they have had enough of Democracy.

Republicans of Clatsop county, you must be on the alert. The enemy is active, begging, telling falsehoods, preaching passivism and everything else that is mean—all for the almighty dollar. TAX PAYER.

B Mattney died in Jackson county a few days since, at the advanced age of 81 years.

The Polk County Republican Convention will meet May 4th to nominate a county ticket.

There are one hundred and twenty pupils attending the public school in Dallas, Polk county.

The Jackson County Democratic Convention to nominate a county ticket will be held on the 9th day of next month.

The Bedrock faction of the Democracy of Jackson county charges ballot box stuffing and all manner of frauds upon the other wing of the same party in the primary meetings.

A large amount of herring are being taken at Yaquina Bay this season. They are being prepared for market by smoking, and will probably be shipped to San Francisco by the Ell[illegible] now engaged in the Yaquina trade.

We credit the following to Capt. Crandall of the Statesman. A California paper says "Everybody from Grover down" will stamp Oregon this summer, but omits to tell us what everybody from Grover up will do. "From Grover down" cuts the list very near the caudal extremity.

From the Statesman we learn that Judge Odeneal, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, who was very ill a few days ago with a severe cold, is again upon the streets, having entirely recovered from his indisposition. He has not yet received official information of any trouble with the Indians in Eastern Oregon.

The last number of the Jacksonville Times furnishes a list of outrages committed on white settlers east of the mountains by the Modoc Indians, and says they are stealing property of all kinds, killing stock, shooting into camps, and that altogether a very alarming state of affairs exist, demanding the vigorous interposition of the military authority. If something is not done soon, the settlers will have to take the law into their own hands and punish these insolent red skins.

The Salem Statesman says that many improvements are going on favorably at Yaquina Bay this season. Mr Frank Slate has moved his hotel establishment into a new, elegant and commodious building at Oneita (Simpson's mill), and is now prepared to entertain the traveling public in a "hostile" manner. A new store is to be opened at Elk City, daily coaches are to run between Newport and New Cape; the new steamer works to a charm, and everybody is going to vote the Republican ticket.

A correspondent of the Jacksonville Times, at Alkali Valley, writes to that paper as follows: The Modoc Indians left Lost river country after their council with Col Otis. Yesterday three families arrived here from Langell valley and the fact is every family will leave there on account of those Indians. Capt Jack, of the Modocs is at Langell Valley with his warriors, and frightens everybody. The command under Col Berry is at Lost river. It would be a satisfaction to the settlers of Langell Valley if half the command were stationed there.

A correspondent at Harrisburg writes as follows: [illegible] wish to say that I have often found but seldom improved occasion to censure the jealous temper of the press for its too free, and of so most wanton rebuke of good emulation. Some appear to have a native passion for fault finding. Some seem to relish the use of bitter and hurtful expressions, where sweet and grateful words might well be used to cheer and guide the youthful or elder genius, to smooth ambition's steep and rugged path, and light the many clouded ways of noble toil. Thus I thought, the other day, when I made a happy visit to the parents, and old mountain home of C H Miller. As "Joaquin" and the elder brother—my former schoolmates, and ever constant friends—were absent, their mother showed me her scrap book of criticisms and compliments for and against her boy as she had gleaned them from various journals. Do men not sometimes forget that the boy may go amiss, or the man may err, and yet have many noble graces to redeem the fault?

THE TERRITORIES

A new flouring mill is being built in Walla Walla county at Cowl's crossing of the Walla Walla river.

Helena Montana is infested with burglars. So it seems is Walla Walla and Portland is not altogether free of their presence.

Philip Diehl of Helena M T was drowned on the 4th inst in attempting to swim a herd of cattle across the Missouri river at Gallatin.

Judge Lewis, the new appointee, has put in an appearance at Walla Walla, filed the oath of office and appointed W H Andrews Clerk of the District Court.

The mining prospects in Montana Territory are very good and the Helena Herald, one of our best exchanges, speaks of rich strikes being made in various localities.

The Crow Indians in Gallatin county Montana are reported to be in open hostility. The soldiers stationed at Fort Ellis having been paid several of them left the profession of war and the citizens are organizing a home guard.

The Montana mining season opens auspiciously. Placer mining has already commenced in various parts of the Territory. Our estimated gold yield from gulch and lode working this year, is put at $15,000,000. It will probably exceed rather than fall below that figure.

It is amusing to see with what eager labor the Democracy are drumming up recruits for the Cincinnati Convention. Even our neighbor of the Herald is at it. That paper wants it to appear as if the Cincinnati side-show really represented the Republican party. In its results, if it leads to any results this movement will represent Democracy. For the only consequence to which it could lead would be a Democratic triumph. It will [illegible] [illegible] Democratic [illegible] with [illegible] pathetic [illegible]

W[illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] the [illegible] important [illegible] in full.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that every private soldier and officer who has served in the army of the United States during the recent rebellion for ninety days or more, and who was honorably discharged and has remained loyal to the Government including the troops mustered into the service of the United States by virtue of the third section of an act entitled an act making appropriations for completing the defences of Washington, and for other purposes approved February 13th 1862, and every seaman, marine and officer who has served in the navy of the United States, or in the marine corps during the rebellion, for ninety days and who was honorably discharged, and has remained loyal to the Government shall on compliance with the provisions of an act entitled an act to secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public domain, and the acts amendatory thereof, as hereinafter modified, be entitled to enter upon and receive patents for a quantity of public land (not mineral) not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, or one quarter section, to be taken in compact form according to legal subdivisions including the alternate reserved sections of public lands along the line of any railroad or other public work not otherwise reserved or appropriated and other lands subject to entry under the homestead laws of the United States, provided that said homestead settler shall be allowed six months after locating his homestead within which to commence his settlement and improvement, and provided also that the time which the homestead settler shall have served in the army, navy or marine corps, shall be deducted from the time heretofore required to perfect title, or if discharged on account of wounds received or disability incurred in the line of duty, then the term of enlistment shall be deducted from the time heretofore required to perfect title without reference to the length of time he may have served, provided, that no patent shall issue to any homestead settler who has not resided upon improved and cultivated his homestead for a period of at least one year after he shall commence his improvements as aforesaid.

Sec 2. That any person entitled under the provisions of the foregoing section to enter a homestead who may have heretofore entered under the homestead laws a quantity of land less than one hundred and sixty acres shall be permitted to enter under the provisions of this act so much land as, when added to the quantity previous entered shall not exceed one hundred and sixty acres.

Sec 3. That in case of the death of any person who would be entitled to a homestead under the provisions of the first section of this act, his widow, if unmarried or in case of her death or marriage, then his minor orphan children by a guardian duly appointed and officially accredited at the Department of the Interior, shall be entitled to all the benefits enumerated in this act, subject to all the provisions as to settlement and improvements therein contained, provided, that if such person died during his term of enlistment the whole term of his enlistment shall be deducted from the time heretofore required to perfect the title.

Sec 4. That where a party at the date of his entry of a tract of land under the homestead laws, or subsequently thereto, was actually enlisted and employed in the army or navy of the United States, his service therein shall, in the administration of said homestead laws be construed to be equivalent to all intents and purposes to a residence for the same length of time upon the tract so entered. Provided, That if his entry has been canceled by reason of his absence from said tract while in the military or naval service of the United States, and such tract has not been disposed of, his entry shall be restored and confirmed. And provided further, That if said tract has been disposed of said party may enter another tract subject to entry under said laws and his right to a patent therefor shall be determined by the proof touching his residence and cultivation of first tract and his absence therefrom in such service.

Sec 5. That any soldier, sailor, marine, officer or other person, coming within the provisions of this act, may as well by an agent as in person enter upon said homestead, provided, that the said claimant in person shall, within the time prescribed commence settlement and improvements on the same, and thereafter fulfill all the requirements of this act.

Sec 6. That the Commissioners of the General Land Office shall have authority to make all needful rules and regulations to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

It seems as if the Germans were getting ready to occupy another department besides those held in pledge of the indemnity which the French have always claimed as peculiarly their own. We mean the domain of Fashion. Early in February last was held a Congress of German Fashions lasting three days at which were represented besides Prussia, Saxony, Bavaria, and the Rhenish provinces. The settlement of the styles for the coming summer and autumn was the important business of this solemn conclave.

CITY.

DISCOVERY OF LEAD — [illegible] discovered near [illegible] orders in Linn county have [illegible] this city for analysis by J H Fisk assayer. From him we learn that after testing the [illegible] contain about 20 per cent [illegible] a very [illegible] proportion [illegible] the result of the assay [illegible] dwt. This is regarded as [illegible] silver. This is [illegible] cent yield of these metals [illegible] discovery [illegible] as the [illegible] A joint stock company has been lately [illegible] porated in this city for the [illegible] the development of the [illegible] mines. Mr Fisk informs us that [illegible] quantities of this same ore with all the [illegible] tent of as bounteous a yield of the same metals have been discovered in the vicinity of [illegible] Captain Corno of the [illegible] has contracted to bring over on his return to this city a large quantity of this ore. It will be analyzed here, and, if attended with satisfactory results, here, and, if attended with satisfactory results, run into bars and sent to Europe. All these things demonstrate the fact that Oregon abounds in all the rich mineral stores which are essential in building up and developing one of the most promising States of the Union. Capital and men of energy and enterprise are what is required to reveal and turn into profitable channels these latent sources of a State's permanent wealth

THE OLDEST MASON IN OREGON.—We have often read and write about the oldest inhabitant," but who is entitled to the credit of being the oldest member of the Masonic Order in this State? We think we have discovered him. It is Kellogg, father of Capt Jos Kellogg of his city, joined the Masons in October 1811. We have been shown his demit as Master Mason from Harvey Lodge No 1 United Ancient York Masons of St Andrews Lower Canada bearing date of Jan 7, 1811. It is a curious document printed on parchment and yellow with age. Mr Kellogg is yet hale and hearty at his advanced age, and is in complete possession of both mental and physical faculties. He has an apron made of lamb skin which was worn by his uncle long before he himself had attached himself to the Order. Is there an older Mason than Mr Kellogg in the State? If so we should like to hear from him. This old gentleman and his son Joseph, brought the Charter across the plains for Multnomah Lodge No 1 at Oregon City in 1846, of which the older Kellogg is still a member

TO BE REMOVED.—The Town Council of Astoria passed an ordinance at its last meeting directing the Harbormaster at that place to remove the piles driven by Captain Flavel in the navigable waters of the Columbia at the foot of Cass street, also, an ordinance prohibiting the building or enlarging of any wharf, within the limits of the town of Astoria without special permission from the Council accurately defining the limits of such wharf. The charter of 1864 places this subject under the control of the Council. We learn that this action of the Town Council is the result of a misunderstanding which exists between the owner of the land adjacent and Captain Flavel—the former claiming that the improvements made by Captain Flavel retract the navigable waters and are a serious impediment to the free use of the company's wharf

OF INTEREST TO THE PUBLIC.—Post Master General J A J Creswell has issued to the various Post Offices the following circular: Owing to the rapid increase in the mails and the establishment of many new Post Offices throughout the country, this Department finds it necessary in order to facilitate the distribution and to secure a speedy transmission of the heavy mails now passing, particularly over the trunk lines of [illegible] to request of the public that in all cases the name of the County as well as the Post Office and State, be superscribed upon letters [illegible] newspapers, and other matter to be forwarded by mail

SITKA SILVER.—Some of the supposed silver and gold bearing quartz which was brought a few days since from Sitka on the steamer Gussie Telfair, was assayed by Mr J H Fisk yesterday. The result did not prove as satisfactory as was anticipated, as the presence of but a very [illegible] of the precious metals was detected. The quartz was some of the cropping, [illegible] to contain a large percentage of lime [illegible] sent to San Francisco for analy[illegible] more favorably than those tested [illegible] fever among the Sitkans is likely [illegible] ardor abated

CLUB ORGANIZED.—A Republican Club was organized at Astoria last Saturday evening. Much [illegible] prevailed, and it was resolved to support heartily and endorse fully the regular nominees of the County Convention. The members were addressed by W Lair Hill Esq, of this city, in which he strongly urged them to stand to their principles work in harmony and give the ticket their undivided support. There appears to be no disaffection in the Republican ranks in Clatsop county and but little doubt but what Col Cornelius will be the next State Senator

WATER AND GAS MAP.—At the office of the Portland Gas and Water Company can be seen a very neatly executed map of this city which shows accurately the length direction number etc, of both the gas and water mains which supply the city. It is the only map of the city which indicates these points. The work of draughting was performed by Mr B G Whitehouse, who, though not an expert in this direction, has shown himself no tyro

ARTILLERY COMPANY.—We learn that the new Artillery Company being organized in this city now number twenty five men. On the 10th of next month the number of men at that time on hand, will be enrolled. By the Fourth of July it is expected that there will be a company of fifty men and four guns. At present this company have two guns. They expect to be on parade and fire the customary salutes on the [illegible] anniversary

NO QUORUM.—Three members of the Common Council met last night at the Council Chamber. They were Messrs Caywood Congle and Hallock, and were called to order by His Honor Mayor Wasserman. The roll was called, and no quorum being present the President declared the Council adjourned. We learn that certain other members who were in the city were not desirous of holding any meeting last evening and so did not attend

NEW BOOKS.—To the Portland Library has been added a new edition of the Holy Bible containing the Old and New Testaments the text carefully printed from the most correct copies of the present authorized translation including the marginal readings and parallel texts with a commentary and critical notes designed as a help to a better understanding of the Sacred Writings by Adam Clarke LL D F S A —6 vols

AT SAN FRANCISCO.—By the dispatches we are informed that the Rev D Nevins is in San Francisco. This reverend gentleman is direct from Mobile, Alabama and is on his way to this city to assume the Pastorate of Trinity Parish now occupied by the Rev Mr Burton. Mr Nevins sustains the reputation of being a learned and eloquent divine

LAYING A CORNER STONE.—Bishop Morris and [illegible] will lay the corner stone of the new Trinity church, now being built on the corner of Fifth and Oak streets to-day at 4 o clock P M. The [illegible] and officers of the parish as well as members of the congregation who may desire are requested to be in attendance at the vestry room by 3 o clock

RELIGIOUS MEETINGS.—Meetings are now being held each evening at the Taylor Street M E Church and a lively interest in religious matters is being taken in many [illegible] those who have [illegible] paid but little attention to that subject heretofore

HELD.—A J Mose charged with forgery was preliminarily examined before the Justice of the North Portland Precinct yesterday [illegible] to answer and his bail fixed [illegible] 00 in default of which he was committed to the [illegible]

DISCONTINUED AND [illegible].—[illegible] the Post Office Clackamas county has been discontinued, and Dan [illegible] county Idaho, has recently been established

A grocer recently had a pound of sugar returned, with a note stating that it contained too much sand for table use and not enough for building purposes

REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN CLUB

Portland Oregon Apr 24 1872

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Sir: On the 18th of the present month a number of the Republican voters of Multnomah county met and adopted the enclosed resolutions, a declaration of principles, and organized a Republican Campaign Club and the gentlemen whose names are subscribed to said resolutions are now members of that [illegible]. And in order that the public may fully understand the objects of the club I am directed to furnish you with a copy of said resolutions and list of the names of the members. And request you to publish the same in both your daily and weekly [illegible]

B KILLIN Secretary

[illegible]

[illegible] that the present [illegible] pledge themselves to use every honorable effort in [illegible] to secure as delegates to the Republican County Convention only such as [illegible] community of recognized integrity and republicans [illegible] and who are entirely free from all political factions [illegible] and also [illegible] being controlled or influenced by the private interests of any person or persons

[illegible] That we are in favor of strict and even handed justice to all persons and classes of persons and we will use every reasonable endeavor to secure the nomination to all the county offices and the Legislature [illegible] such men as will faithfully and honestly represent the interests of the people and the republican party who command the respect and confidence of the voters and taxpayers of the county and who will not be controlled or influenced in their action by the private interests or personal aims of any person

[illegible] That we are opposed to the use of money [illegible] other corrupting influences to control the action of voters at Republican primary meetings and we are in favor of allowing every voter, however humble to use his own best judgment in such primaries without fear, favor or the hope of receiving reward

That we invite all Republicans who endorse the foregoing resolutions to co operate with us in carrying them into effect

Atmospheric Diseases

The air we breathe [illegible] source of diseases of which [illegible] At this season especially the atmosphere is full of the germs of many kinds of sickness. Every globule of the mist and fog which enshroud the earth and sky in spring holds in solution its portion of miasmatic poison

The evil effects of this [illegible] may be certainly averted by increasing the vital activity of the system and securing the full and free exercise of all its natural functions and hence it is that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters the great nerve strengthener regulator and antidote to malaria, is imperatively required in the Spring months

It is at this time too that Dyspepsia assumes its most distressing types and that persons of bilious habit usually suffer most. There is a [illegible] in the air which depresses the spirits as well as the physical energies and in order to restore their elasticity tonic treatment is absolutely necessary

All the [illegible] knows that the wonderful [illegible] of Hostetter's Bitters in cases of indigestion [illegible] nervous prostration and malarial [illegible] is due to the [illegible] tency of its tonic alterative and aperient materials and the absolutely pure stimulant with which they are incorporated

It is because the public have been taught by twenty years experience that the article can be implicitly trusted—inasmuch as it performs uniformly and certainly all that it is advertised to do—that they prefer this sovereign tonic to every other. Hence its immense and ever increasing sales and hence too also the many counterfeits and imitations against which [illegible] guard [illegible] close scrutiny of the purchaser

OPINION BY JUDGE UPTON.

Circuit Court for Multnomah county, Feb. term, 1872.

Emerance Groslouis vs. S. Northrut.

- Under the Donation Law the claimant may, before patent issues, obtain an interest in the land that is subject to judicial sale.
- In construing a stipulation filed in the cause, the intention of the parties is to be determined from the language used in the written stipulation.
- A stipulation that the party was divorced in a designated suit is, in effect, an admission that the Court had jurisdiction to grant the divorce.
- Whether under the Act of 1854, concerning divorce, the Court had power to transfer the lands of a party in fee to the children. Query.
- In a divorce suit where the pleadings make no reference to the property, the Court cannot render a valid decree transferring from the wife to the children of the parties an estate in fee simple in a particular parcel of land.
- Every reasonable intendment will be invoked in support of the judgment or decree of a Court of general jurisdiction.
- Special disposition of the real estate of the parties, although incidental to the subject of the divorce, is within the provisions of the code requiring the complaint to state facts.
- After a decree has become final, any colorable statement of facts is sufficient to prevent the decree from being held void, but there must be some statements sufficiently general to comprehend the requisite facts by fair intendment.
- If there is nothing in the facts stated in the pleadings that would, if denied, render proofs necessary, no intendment in favor of the decision will arise to aid or supply an omission of essential facts.

This is an action of ejectment for the north half of a parcel of land known as the Petit land claim. The plaintiff was formerly the wife of Hubert Petit, but he obtained a decree of divorce against her in a suit commenced in 1857. Prior to that time Hubert Petit and his said wife were settled upon said land claim, and in 1871 a patent was issued in pursuance of their settlement and claim, granting to the said Hubert Petit the south half of said land claim, "and unto his wife, the said Emerance Petit, and to her heirs, the north half." The plaintiff claims title under this patent.

The defendant, to establish title in himself, claims that by the decree in the suit for divorce the title to the north half of the tract was vested in two minor children of the said Hubert and of this plaintiff, and that afterwards a guardian was appointed by the Probate Court, and the premises sold at a guardian's sale to the defendant.

By a stipulation on file the following facts are admitted:

Prior to September, 1857, the plaintiff was the wife of Hubert Petit, and she is now the wife of Peter Groslouis. In September, 1857, said Hubert and this plaintiff were divorced by a decree, of which Exhibit "S" is a copy. They then had two children, named Adelaide and Josephine Petit, and were owners of the said land claim. It was also expressed in the stipulation that the "plaintiff does not waive any objections she may have or desire to make to the validity, legality or sufficiency of any of the records produced by the defendant."

A jury trial was waived. The plaintiff introduced the patent and rested her case. The defendant offered Exhibit "S," which was objected to by the plaintiff. It consisted of a copy of a complaint and decretal entry in the case of Petit vs. Petit. In the complaint Hubert Petit alleges facts, sufficient, if true, to constitute a cause of divorce against this plaintiff, but the complaint contains no allegations concerning land, nor any reference to property. It is entitled:

"In the District Court of the 1st Judicial District of Oregon Territory, Marion county, Sept. term, 1857. The decretal entry is as follows:

Hubert Petit vs Emerance Petit; Divorce—September 29th, 1859.

Now on this day it appearing that a decree had heretofore been rendered in this cause at the Sept. [illegible] term thereof, 1857, and that said decree had not been entered, and it further appearing that Deft. had been served by publication as required by law—it is ordered that said decree be entered Nunc pro tunc. It is therefore ordered that the bonds of matrimony heretofore existing between the parties be dissolved, and that said Hubert have the exclusive custody of the two children, the fruit of said marriage, namely: Adelaide and Josephine, and that the north half of the land claim of said parties, being the part of said claim set apart to said Deft. by the Surveyor General be decreed to and the right and title thereof be vested in the said children, and plaintiff pay costs."

The defendant also offered copies of proceedings in the County Court under which the land was sold, from the petition for the appointment of a guardian, filed May 8th, 1869 to the deed of the guardian, dated Aug. 26th, 1869, inclusive. The plaintiff objected to this evidence upon various grounds, and the decision of the points as to the admissibility of the testimony was reserved.

Sullivan & Thompson and R. Williams for plaintiff.

The legal title did not pass from the Government until the actual issuing of the patent. Donation Law s. 8, 13. Pet. 273.

Nothing less than a deed of the donee, containing covenants, is a good defence in ejectment against her patent. 3 How. 627. 3 John. Ch. 148.

The complaint in the divorce suit is insufficient. The decree was made without authority and is void. Comp. L. 1855, p. 538, ss. 7 and 8.

The court had no power to vest title in the minor children. Fitch v. Durand. U. S. Circuit C. Dist. Oregon. 4 Iowa 26. 4 Hill 110.

The proceedings in the Probate Court are insufficient. Code p. 671, s. 2. 2 Mass. 414. 4 ib. 97. Code 880, ss. 6, 10 and 11.

Rufus Mallory for the defendant.

Upton, J., delivered the following opinion: The plaintiff having introduced a patent from the United States, the burthen of proof is on the defendant; and the questions to be determined relate principally to the admissibility, and to the effect of the proofs offered by the defendant.

The first point made in the plaintiff's brief, if sustained, would be a conclusive objection to all the defendant's evidence, and to the facts set up in the answer.

This point is, that the legal title remained in the United States until the patent issued in 1871, and that up to that time neither the plaintiff nor any other person, had any interest that could be the subject of a judicial sale.

I am unable to deduce, from the authorities cited, the conclusion that under the donation law the legal title does not pass to the donee by operation of the statute. It has frequently been held that a legislative grant is as effective to pass a title to land, in all respects, as a grant evidenced by a patent. Kernan vs. Griffith, 27 Cal. 87.

The plaintiff's counsel cite Wilcox vs. Jackson, 13 Pet. 499, to sustain the position that, because the donation law provides for issuing a patent, the title does not pass until the patent issues. The circumstance that by the act of 1836, under consideration in that case, patents are to issue in pre-emption cases, is there referred to as affording an inference, or argument, that under the pre-emption laws "a perfect and consummate title" will not pass except by a patent.

The pre-emption acts contain no words of present grant, and it is not said in that case, and I think it is not said by that court in any case, that where the statute grants lands by words of present grant, and also provides for issuing a patent at a future time, the title will not pass until the patent issues. On the contrary, statutes that contain words of present grant are expressly excepted from the general rule there stated.

In that case the contest was between the assignee of a pre-emptioner, holding a pre-emption certificate, and a military officer in possession, "claiming no right of ownership, but as an officer of the United States only, in command of said post, acting under the orders of the Secretary of War, his superior officer, and the United States." One of the points decided in the case was that the land was a military reservation, and consequently not subject to pre-emption; and a further deduction was that it was not a subject within the jurisdiction of the Register of the Land-office, and that for that reason the Register's decision, and his certificate were void. It was in commenting upon such a case that Judge Barbour used the following language: "With the exception of a few cases, nothing but a patent passes a perfect and consummate title. One class of cases to be excepted is, where an act of Congress grants land, as is sometimes done, in words of present grant. But we need not go into these exceptions. The general rule is what we have stated, and it applies as well to pre-emptions as to other purchases of public lands. Thus it will appear by the very act of 1836, which we have been examining, that patents are to issue in pre-emption cases. Thus, then, being the case, and this suit having been in effect against the United States, to hold that the party could recover as against them, would be to hold that a party having an inchoate and imperfect title, could recover against the one in whom resided the perfect title." I do not deem this language a decided indication that Judge Barbour thought a provision for the subsequent issuing of a patent would have controlled words of present grant. On the contrary I think that opinion recognizes what was then a settled doctrine of that court, that an act of Congress, couched in words of present grant was sufficient to pass the legal title.

I have been unable to see what bearing the case of Livingston v. Livingston, 3 John. Ch. 148, has upon this question.

The remaining case to which the plaintiff refers, is that of Price v. Sessions, 3 How. 624. Property, real and personal, was devised to a daughter, to remain in the possession of executors until the daughter should arrive at the age of eighteen years; if she should die without heirs before arriving at that age, the property to go to certain other persons. When the daughter was about sixteen years of age, the executor who had the property in possession married the daughter, and before she arrived at the age of eighteen, a law was passed securing to married women their property, free from the husband's debts. A portion of this property (which seems to have been slaves) was seized on execution for the husband's debt. It was held that the person who had married the devisee was in possession of the property not as husband but as executor. And that, for that reason, that is, because the property had never been delivered to the devisee, the title had never vested in her. It is not a case where she was held not to have the legal title, from the circumstance that a right or estate of her's in the property was liable to be defeated by contingent events. On the contrary it was decided that for want of delivery the property had never become hers.

From a careful examination of authorities touching this subject, I am clearly of opinion that the first paragraph of Section 329 of the Code, page 230, is not an innovation, nor in contravention of any law of the United States, and that it is declaratory of the law as it had been previously established by decisions of the Federal Courts.

The decision of the merits of this case must turn upon other questions, but a reference to the authorities cited on this point seemed to be due, both on account of the able and earnest manner in which this subject has been pressed upon the attention of the Court, and that it may be understood that this point in the plaintiff's case is not an element in the reasoning that leads to the conclusions at which I have arrived in regard to the merits of the case.

The following are some of the other points made by the plaintiff:

1. That the record shown by exhibit marked "S" does not show jurisdiction in the Court to grant the divorce.

2. That, in that suit, the complaint does not state facts sufficient to authorize a divorce.

3. It does not state facts that authorized a decree as to the property.

4. It was not in the power of the Court in any case to transfer the lands of the wife to the children in fee.

5. The guardian's sale was not regularly made.

I think the first, second, and third points can not be raised by the plaintiff so far as they relate to granting the divorce, in the face of the stipulation that the parties were divorced by the decree. The plaintiff claims that her rights in this respect are reserved by the saving clause in the stipulation, and her counsel claims that such was the agreement of the parties, expressed at the time the stipulation was signed. The court can not look beyond the written stipulation to ascertain the intention of the parties, and I do not think the saving clause sufficient to enable plaintiff to say at this late day, that the record does not disclose a decree of divorce. The admission debars the plaintiff from denying that there was enough before the court in the first instance in 1857, to authorize the rendition of the decree, or afterwards in 1859 to justify entering it nunc pro tunc. It is true as a general proposition that consent cannot confer jurisdiction, but this is not a case of conferring jurisdiction, it is, in effect, an admission that the court had jurisdiction, and there is not in my opinion enough in the record to show affirmatively that the court had not jurisdiction to enter a decree granting a divorce.

I shall therefore take it as conceded that the court had jurisdiction of the persons and of the subject matter of the bonds of matrimony, for the purpose of entering a decree of divorce, and shall proceed to inquire as to the validity of that part of the decree which purports to vest the title of the wife's land in the children. The statute then in force (Comp. L. 1855, p. 540) provides that, "The court shall also make such disposition of the property of the parties as shall appear just and equitable, having regard to the respective merits of the parties, and to the condition in which they will be left by such divorce, and to the party through whom the property was acquired, and to the burthens imposed on it, for the benefit of the children. And all the property * * * not otherwise disposed of or regulated by order of the court shall, by such divorce be divested out of the guilty party, and vested in the party at whose instance the divorce was granted."

There is a conflict of authorities upon the question whether a court had power under that statute, in any case to transfer the property of the parties in fee to the children.

In the case of Fitch v. Durand, tried before Judge Deady in the U. S. Circuit Court for the District of Oregon, it was held that a decree of similar purport to the one under consideration, did not operate to pass the fee, but only enabled the children to hold the property during their minority. The decision is placed upon the ground that the Circuit Court of the Territory had not jurisdiction and power to make such disposition of the real estate of the party. It was there conceded that, "If the act has received a settled construction in the courts of Oregon, it is the duty of this [the U. S. Circuit] Court to follow such construction."

The decree then under consideration was rendered in the case of Cline v. Cline in the Circuit Court for Multnomah county in 1862. On the argument in Fitch v. Durand, counsel cited five other cases, in which, between Sept. 1855 and Nov. 1860, the Circuit Courts in the same district had rendered decrees purporting to transfer real estate in fee to the children of the parties. No such case was cited from any other district—and the circumstance that the act had been so construed in only one district, was referred to as one reason for considering its construction still an open question.

The case now under consideration was tried in another district, but the attention of the court was not called to it. It was said in the case of Fitch v. Durand, the act "contained no provisions for an appeal from the inferior courts in which the original jurisdiction was vested, to the Supreme Court, and therefore its provisions never came before the latter court, and was never considered or expounded by it. * * * In the other judicial districts, no such construction appears ever to have been given to the act, and only in these comparatively few instances in a period of nine years, in that one. If this state of things is any evidence of a settled construction of the statute, by the courts of Oregon, it is against the one claimed by the defendant. I conclude then that the question is unsettled, and that this court must construe the act for itself." And it was there held that "the decision of the Circuit Court given in the suit for divorce, so far as it provides that the premises in controversy should be held by or for the use of the minor children * * beyond the time when they should become of age respectively, is simply void."

As no such provision of statute has been in force since 1863, and as it is quite possible this is the last time its construction will be questioned in the Courts of this State, I am disposed to rest the decision of the case solely upon what appears to me a much less debatable ground.

It will be observed that the complaint in the suit for divorce makes no allusion to the property or to the pecuniary affairs of the parties, or of either of them.

The recitals in the decretal order, purporting to justify the entry of the decree nunc pro tunc, do not show that anything was determined concerning the property in the first instance by the Court before which the cause was tried. And there is enough appearing on the face of the record to show that the Judge who made the order nunc pro tunc, was not the Judge before whom the cause was tried. The Clerk has certified that exhibit "S" is a copy of the whole of the record.

It is therefore necessary, in order to sustain the defendant's positions, to assume that the Circuit Court render a valid and binding decree in regard to a subject matter that is not mentioned in the pleadings, and that a judge could at a subsequent term, by an order nunc pro tunc, enter a decree making a transfer, from the wife to the children, of a particular parcel of land that was not previously described or mentioned in the pleadings or in the record.

Every reasonable intendment will be invoked in support of the judgment or decree of a Court of general jurisdiction. And courts often exercise powers that are incidental to the principal subject of the litigation. But such incidental power is not applied to a subject matter that is wholly extraneous and not mentioned in the pleadings. It always operates upon some matter that is regularly brought before the Court.

For example, in suits to remove clouds from title, or in bills of peace, where the principal point in the litigation is to establish and perpetuate a right, the Court will sometimes afford incidental relief by reforming or canceling a written instrument, or by compelling its production and delivery, even when such relief is not the principal object of the suit; but the facts in relation to such instrument must be laid before the Court by the pleadings. If the instrument was merely produced in the evidence, and not mentioned in the pleadings, its reformation or cancelation would not be decreed.

So in forcible entry and detainer the Court will afford incidental relief by granting restitution of the premises, but the premises are designated in the pleadings.

So in the foreclosure of a lien a writ of assistance is sometimes issued in favor of the purchaser, but this would not be done if the record contained no designation of the premises.

I am unable to call to mind any class of cases where Courts have, by virtue of such incidental power, exercised judicial discretion to make a special and final disposition of a parcel of real estate that is not referred to in the pleadings or prior proceedings.

Under the statute above cited the decree in a suit for divorce may possibly, in certain cases, by operation of law, affect the title to property that is "not disposed of or regulated by order of the Court," even where the property is not mentioned in the pleadings. But that circumstance does not add to the incidental power of the Court, and it is not material to the inquiry here whether property not mentioned in the pleadings would be thus affected, for it is not claimed that this property has been transferred by mere operation of law. The question is whether it has been disposed of by the special adjudication set forth in the decree.

The object in requiring facts to be stated in the pleadings is threefold; that the facts may be brought before the court, whose office it is to apply the law to the facts; to apprize the opposite party what is meant to be proved; and to lay a foundation for recording that which shall be adjudged concerning the facts alleged. Neither party has the right to introduce any proofs except such as support or contradict something that is alleged in the pleadings. How, then, can the Court exercise a discretion, having regard to the property of the parties, "the condition in which they will be left by such divorce, and to the party through whom the property was acquired," if the pleadings contain no reference to the subject. There are but two possible modes for such a proceeding when there are no allegations in regard to property, the judge must exercise the discretion, without any knowledge of the facts, or he must act upon knowledge obtained outside of any legitimate proceeding connected with the trial of the cause.

I cannot doubt, that, under that statute it was contemplated that the court would act upon proofs, or upon facts taken as confessed, in attempting to make special disposition of real estate; and that special disposition of the property of the parties, although incidental to the granting or refusing the divorce, is within the provisions of the code requiring the complaint to state facts.

It is true that after the decree has become final, any colorable statement of the essential facts would be sufficient to prevent the decree from being held void: but the instances in which the effect of omissions, or defective statements of facts, are avoided by presumptions in favor of the jurisdiction, are where the pleadings have contained statements sufficiently general to comprehend the requisite facts by fair intendment.

If the issue joined be such as necessarily required, on the trial, proof of facts imperfectly stated or omitted, without which proof the decision of the cause would not have been made, the imperfection or the omission will not be fatal. But only when a necessary intendment must arise, not merely from the decision, but from the united effect of the decision and the issue upon which the decision was given, that the imperfectly stated or the omitted facts must have been proven on on the trial. If there is nothing in the facts stated in the pleadings that would render such proofs necessary, no such intendment in favor of the decision will arise to aid or supply the defect. (Garner vs Marshall, 9 Cal. 268. Hatsch vs Porter, 10 Cal. 555.)

No such intendment arises to excuse such an omission in case of a judgment by default, for the default admits only such facts as are actually alleged, and there is no necessity for the plaintiff proving anything further. (1 Chitty, p. 673.)

By the common law as well as by the code, the defect that the complaint fails to state facts constituting a cause of action, was not waived by failing to demur, or to answer; and this is upon the principle that courts will not and can not, adjudicate upon that which is not brought before them.

In this case it is virtually admitted by the stipulation that the court had jurisdiction of the subject matter of the alleged divorce, and of the persons of the plaintiff and defendant. The question is whether there is any reasonable intendment or presumption that can be indulged, that the subject matter of the defendant's property was legally placed before the court for adjudication.

It is a case where the defendant might have appeared and filed an answer, describing her property. But if she had answered, the recital, that she had been served by process by publication, would have been unnecessary, and that recital, omitting all mention of an answer, certainly does not indicate that an answer was filed. This matter, however, is placed beyond conjecture, the Clerk certifies that Exhibit "S" is a copy of the whole record. It is not a case calling for presumptions as to what pleadings were filed, for all the facts in relation to these matters are fully disclosed. And the facts present this question: Could a judge who was trying a divorce suit, without having before him, judicially, any knowledge as to whether either party owned any property, make a valid decree specially transferring a specific parcel of land in a direction it would not pass by operation of law?

Aside from the general principle upon which the law universally requires pleadings upon which to predicate a judgment or decree, such could not have been the legislative intent in enacting this statute, because the statute requires the Court to investigate and be informed in regard to the pecuniary condition of the parties, and as to the party through whom the property was acquired, before attempting to make an equitable disposition of the property. And it makes special provision concerning the property that shall not be disposed of or negotiated by order of the Court.

In the divorce suit there was no foundation laid for introducing evidence on these points, and there are no admissions, direct or by implication, concerning them.

I think there is not enough in the judgment roll in the divorce suit to operate as a foundation of a title to real estate, and that judgment should be rendered in favor of the plaintiff.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Wednesday Evening, April 24, 1872.

Gold in New York, 112.

Greenbacks, 90 buying and 91 selling.

The steamer Oriflamme, from San Francisco, arrived this afternoon. She brings 550 tons of general merchandise. She will sail on Saturday.

No vessels were seen off the bar as the Oriflamme came in.

By the last steamer from Hongkong the Government of Japan sent $2,000,000 to the Bank of California under a contract by which $20,000,000 of the old Japanese gold coins are to be refined into the United States standard gold and transmitted to Japan for coinage into the new decimal coins of the reformed currency, based upon the United States standard.

It is authoritatively stated that the Pacific Mail steamship Company will inaugurate a semi-monthly service between San Francisco and China and Japan on the 18th of May. The new Trans-Pacific steamers at about that time, and greater facilities than the monthly steamers can afford will be absolutely required to accommodate the extensive trade that is expected to seek the overland route this season.

The unusual features presented by the Wool market this spring are exciting much attention. It is now an ascertained fact that if we take the entire clip of the country we have not more than half the quantity of Wool required to keep the machinery of the country in operation. To make this plain we present the following statement prepared by the Superintendent of the Census for the Finance Committee of the Senate, showing the number of woolen mills and the sets of woolen cards in the United States:

Hosiery, Worsted and carpet mills are not included.

To keep this machinery in operation we must import large quantities of foreign Wool. But Wool is almost equally scarce in Europe, and prices there under the competitive demand of manufacturers are also exceptionally high. The consequence is that though we are now producing more Wool than at any former period, yet the demand is so much greater that prices constantly tend upward.
